EASE THE PAIN OF ME LADS

Published on September 4, 2017 by John

« I have a new passion for all the thing linked to smart robots. With my friend little Jean, we discover Pro CleanerX100, a robot for cleaning the livestock buildings. 25 liters per minute the whiz and can reach 35 liters if you have a powerful water pump. It'll ease the pain of my lads who help me to clean up. They'll have a smile on their face the morning when they come to work with me now! »

THE ULTIMATE TIME SAVER

Published on September 18, 2017 by John

« I've just buy a new this to make easier the tasks of my guys with the robot Innovado! It's a device that distributes the fodder automatically. You just have to adjust a few things and it'll take by himself the feed with the right amount at the right moment. A new way to save time! »

GET INTO THE HENS BREEDING WITH SPOUTNIC

Published on October 10, 2017 by John

« I've decided to get into the hen breeding! In order to do things properly, I've also invested in a smart robot that has someone introduce me. 7600 euros the device, ouch! They call it Spoutnic and he looks darn good. If he works well, he will avoid me to check each half hour if the hens laid on the ground. According to the seller, it would be profitable after the second batch of hens. And when he's tired, you just have to charge him during the night when the chickens sleep. »

A CLEAN SHED

Published on January 4, 2018 by John

« They have got very funny names these smart robots! The new one is called Octopus. He will clean and disinfect by himself the big shed with his dry fog technology (well, I didn't understand everything to be honest, but it's said to be groundbreaking...). A dream coming true! »

AFTER OCTOPUS, I'VE GOT OZ

Published on January 12, 2018 by John

« Still have a visit today and guess what? A new one again and it's Oz, a robot built by Ayo technology that helps you to weed, hoe a plot and carry charges. »

I UPGRADED MY TRACTOR FOR MY PLANTS

Published on January 26, 2018 by John

« New find, I upgraded my tractor and added a smart robot, the "see and spray" by Blue River. Very genius this device. He recognizes the state of your plants and decides if you need to give them a little boost. Firstly, you save money becaus' you use less pesticide and secondly, it's healthier. Not to mention the time you save! »

I TRY APPLE PICKER FROM ABUNDANT ROBOTICS

Published on February 20, 2018 by John

« Another chore to delete : the apples picking with the Apple Picker, a robot built by Abundant Robotics. He recognizes the apples and he sucks them in less than two seconds. »

NEED TO CALM DOWN (BUT GOT A DRONE)

Published on February 22, 2018 by John

« Today, I made a new purchase: a drone! The company Parrot has commercialized a drone that can map up to 30 hectares. Then, you can see the state of your crops and see where you need an amount of fertilizer or water. Maybe I'll calm down me spending fever after that becaus' my loan is well engaged... »
