A NEW PONY FOR MY YOUNGER SON PHILLIBERT

Published on October 2, 2017 by John

« Now, animals! I just purchased a new pony for my younger boy Phillibert, his dream! To make sure the beast stays in good health, I took a connected box with sensors made by Coho that I leave in its shelter. It sends me a bunch of data in your phone to be sure me Phillibert's pony is healthy! »

THE GOOD HEALTH OF MY COWS

Published on November 17, 2017 by John

« Another thing to make the life easier: my cows now have sensors on their ears that send you information to tell you if the beast is healthy, have no stress, or if they are in their fertility period. »

I CAN'T LEAVE WITHOUT CONNECTED COLLAR FOR MY COWS!

Published on December 3, 2017 by John

« Even cows are connected now, I gave in for a 4G collar made by Huawei (who also makes smartphones, you know) that you put around their neck. As usual, the collar sends a bunch of data about the beast, the temperature and their localization! Can't leave without this collar! »

GIVE STRAPS TO ME LITTLE HENS

Published on December 10, 2017 by John

« Discussing with little Jean (me friend), I realized that I did nothing for me hens, so I put strap on them. These straps allow me to know the chicken identity, what they eat and if they do enough activities! Practical, becaus' buyers want more en more track the origin of what they spent their money for and how they are raised. »

THE SENSORS FOR ME COW'S TAILS

Published on December 20, 2017 by John

« I decided to annoyme cows again, but it's for their own good: we added sensors on their tails which analyzes their movements to see if anything wrong is going on. It can warn if they are complications during the cows pregnancy and avoid its death! »
